Grand Jury To Begin Session Today Street Signs And Gas System Talked By Hardin Council

Calloway County Grand Jury will begin hearing evidence this afternoon marking the start of what Judge James Lassiter calls "an unusually busy" September circuit court term.

Docketed for the 12-member grand jury is a murder case, rape case, plus a number of other burglary and drug-related cases, according to commonwealths attorney Ron Christopher.

Grand jurors will be investigating the June shooting death of Wayne Duncan, Almo, Christopher said.

The September grand jury includes Carol Jean Sims, Durwood Potts, Orvis Hendricks, Vanda Gibson, Alvah Galloway, Jerry McCoy (foreman), Mrs. Glen Sills, L.J. Hendon, Burton Gee, Raymond Matheny, O.L. Cain Jr. and Wayne Hardie.

The investigative body reports Thursday.

Filing Deadline Is This Wednesday

The deadline for filing to run for office in the November general election is Wednesday, Sept. 14 according to County Clerk Marvin Harris.

Persons wishing to file for elective office should make sure their papers are properly filed prior to the deadline, Harris pointed.

Street Signs And Gas System Talked By Hardin Council

HARDIN—New city street signs and potential new gas utility customers for this south Marshall County town are expected in the near future, city councilmen learned in a town board meeting here last week.

"We'll have street signs put up for all city streets and eventually have the houses numbered," Hardin City Clerk Cress Gardner reported. "We have a problem here, with the ambulance service especially in locating where the people live," Gardner added.

Gardner said the signs are city-funded and are the culmination of a study that began some months ago.

The city also will begin adding new gas customers, according to Gardner. "We have some people who have discontinued the service, plus the school building, 'old' Hardin Elementary burned," Gardner said. Gardner indicated the senior citizens center, which burned in August, used a considerable quantity of natural gas.

The city clerk said the "waiting list" of potential gas customers in Hardin numbers about 15. "Some have been on it a long time," Gardner said.

Hardin gas customers participated in a gas conservation program during the Winter of 1977. "As far as usage we came out real good last winter even with the cold weather," Gardner said.

Lance's Use Of Company Plane Being Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department's criminal fraud division is studying a new report by the comptroller of the currency which reportedly shows that Bert Lance widely used bank-owned aircraft for family and political purposes.

A spokesman for the Justice Department confirmed Sunday that the division had received the study. But he said its referral was routine and did not necessarily indicate there would be any prosecution.

President Carter, meanwhile, was said to be considering the postponement until next week of a news conference which almost certainly would be focused on the financial affairs of his budget director, including the question of whether Lance should resign.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said today no final decision has been made on whether to put off the session, originally scheduled for Wednesday. But he indicated the President may want to wait until Lance completes his testimony scheduled to begin Thursday before the Senate Government Affairs Committee.

In Lance's native Georgia, the president-elect of the American Bankers Association said today that the Lance affair "is casting a pall over the banking industry. . . it may give banking a black eye if it goes unchallenged."

A. A. Mulligan, in a speech prepared for the National Bank Card Convention in Atlanta, said he doesn't know if Lance actually has done anything wrong, but some of the alleged activities "are clearly not typical of banks in this country."

"I see red whenever I hear anyone dismiss the allegations about overdrafts and improper disclosure about loans as being 'just typical business practices,'" Mulligan said.

Historical Society To Visit Logan, Warren Counties

The 20th Annual Jackson Purchase Historical Society fall trip will visit Logan and Warren Counties of Kentucky this year.

Highlights of the Saturday, October 22 event, will include tours through historic Russellville, taking in sights such as the bank robbed by Jesse James; and a tour of Shakertown at South Union, where a box lunch will be served, according to Dr. Ray Mofield, publicity director.

The afternoon tour will feature a visit to the Kentucky History Museum at Western Kentucky University; a tour of the historic Old Hobson House; and the culmination will be an evening banquet at the Claudia Sanders Denver House atop Baker Hill in Bowling Green. Dr. and Mrs. Hunter Hancock will serve as tour directors.

Reservations must be received by Secretary Miss Margaret Heath, 1202 Joe Creason Drive, Benton, 42025, on or before October 12. If all bus seats are not filled by that time, traveling members will have their checks returned. Non-members will be accepted and checks held for possible cancellations. Please provide correct mail address. No refunds after October 12 unless a replacement is available or obtained, Mofield said.

A bus will leave Paducah at 6:30 a. m.; the Mayfield bus station at 7:10 a. m.; and Murray bus station at 7:50 a. m.

Jerry Estes, president of the Logan County Historical Society and newspaper publisher Al Smith, are expected to be on hand to guide the Russellville portion of the tour. Sites noted in the history of Andrew Jackson and Henry Clay will be seen.

South Union is the site of the second largest of the Shakertowns in Kentucky, the other being at Pleasant Hill. Their furniture, seeds, and livestock were eagerly sought, and their running water system was one of the marvels of the early 1800's, Mofield said.

School Board Sets

Special Meet Today

Murray Independent Board of Education is scheduled to install Thomas Rushing to fill the unexpired term of Kenneth Humphreys in a special board session this afternoon.

The city school board is also set to review bids for a 1977 Head Start van in the 5:15 meeting.

Additional Charge Lodged In Connection With Weekend Raid

Calloway County Sheriff's Department has lodged additional charges against a Route 1, Dexter man in connection with a Friday night raid that netted authorities some 186 cans of beer.

According to deputy Ted Alexander Ron King, Route 1, Dexter, is charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon following the Friday raid at the Route 1, Dexter, residence of Earl Gordon. Authorities charged Gordon with possession of alcohol in a dry territory.

Alexander said King is currently free on a $1,000 bond following arrest warrants Monday.

Area Citizens Review Health System Plan

Interested citizens and professionals in the health care field met with the Purchase Subarea Health Council and representatives of the Kentucky Health System Agency-West (KHS-A-West) last week for a public review of Western Kentucky's first Health System Plan (HSP).

The HSP is a statement of goals and objectives of the Health Care Delivery System for the next five years. It demonstrates needs, identifies problems, suggests solutions and quality health care, a spokesman said.

All Health System Agencies receive conditional designation from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for at least the first twelve months of operation. Certain requirements, including the adoption of an HSP, must be satisfied prior to full designation as a Health System Agency.

Contest several of the goals and points in the plan, Dave Leasure, administrator of Fulton Hospital, began the group's discussion. Commenting on the reporting of statistical health data, his concern over privacy of health education, and the gross amount of paper work involved in health care, Leasure stated that the plan constituted "duplication and unnecessary paper work."

"Hospital costs," said Leasure, "have been attributed to mandated legislation by federal or state government. Wage and hour laws, workman's compensation, unemployment compensation. . . (these are some of) the reasons hospital cost has gone up, and it (legislation) has imposed greater impositions on physicians' by doubling their paper work over the past ten years."

When questioned as to the necessity of the document and the expense incurred by taxpayers by some of the processes involved in the health care system, Robert O. Miller, Calloway

County Judge and chairman of the board of Directors for KHS-A-West, stated that when taxpayers begin questioning what they are paying for, "Congress is very receptive to wanting to be sure that utilization of rates, proper admissions, proper lengths of hospital stay. . . are effective throughout the whole spectrum" of health care systems.

"It is a beautiful sickness plan," commented Dr. Clem Burnett, a Mayfield physician, "but very little has been said about health. The object of health systems should be to make people so well they don't need physicians," and concluded Burnett, "I would like to see future emphasis on prevention of health problems."

In response, Robert Reed, chairman of the Purchase Subarea Health Council, explained that the annual

Miss Candace Ramsey And Mr. Dowdy Married Here

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Dowdy

Miss Candace Ramsey, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Ramsey of Murray and the late Ewin Ramsey, became the bride of Jeffrey Dowdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dowdy, Sr., also of Murray, in an afternoon summer ceremony in the sanctuary of the Brooks Chapel United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Aaron Dowdy, brother of the groom, performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Tommy Scott, organist, and Miss Melanie Morris, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music. Vocal selections included "Let It Be Me," "More," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Centering the altar was a heart-shaped brass candelabrum with a brass candelabrum on each side. A vase of spring flowers was set on each side of the altar. Pink satin vows marked the family pews. A unity candle and kneeling bench were used. Both mothers lighted a candle prior to the ceremony.

Bride's Dress
The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Eddie Ramsey, and given in marriage by her mother. She was lovely in her formal gown of peau-de-soie combined with chantilly lace which was designed princess style. The dress featured covered buttons down the front to accent the princess style, a roll collar with a pointed neckline, and long sleeves. The dress was designed by Mrs. Shelda Keeling, cousin of the bride, and by the bride's mother.

Her Juliet style headdress was attached to the veil of silk illusion edged with chantilly lace and accented with tiny seed pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses, pink carnations, and baby's breath.

Miss Terri Erwin was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Carla Ramsey, twin sister of the bride, and Miss Robin Dowdy, sister of the groom. The flower girl was Miss April Woods, niece of the groom.

The attendants' dresses were floor length style designed of pink and white eyelet. They each carried a single long stem pink rose.

Carl Kelleker was the best man for Mr. Dowdy. The groomsmen were Larry Zacheretti and Ralph Dibble. They wore burgundy tuxedos with pink shirts.

The ringbearers were Master Jason Eric Ramsey, brother of the bride, and Master Jason Woods, nephew of the groom.

Mrs. Ramsey, mother of the bride, chose to wear a mauve floor-length dress, and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Dowdy, wore a mint green floor-length dress, and had a purse corsage of white carnations.

Presiding at the register was Miss Cornelia Jackson, cousin of the bride. The table was adorned with sweetheart rose.

Reception
Following the ceremony the reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with a beautiful hand-made cloth of double knit accented with ruffles at the bottom and with pink satin bows. The cloth was designed by Mrs. Mary Jo Mitchell, aunt of the bride. Centering the table was a beautiful bouquet of spring flowers.

The three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom statuette was garlanded with greenery. Punch, nuts, mints, and cake were served.

Serving the guests were Mary Jo Mitchell, Donna Downing, Cindy Wiley, Emma Ramsey, and Julia Harrell.

Miss Lisa Gardner and Miss Amy Dowdy, nieces of the groom, handed out rice bags during the reception.

The couple left later for a wedding trip to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park with the bride wearing a peach pantsuit and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowdy are now residing in Murray.

Lousy Student May Mean Lousy Roomie

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old woman living alone in an apartment and I need a roommate to share expenses. A 16-year-old boy wants to be my roommate. We work together. His parents kicked him out of the house because he did lousy in school, and he needs a place to live. What worries me is this: If the boy moves in with me, will I get in trouble because he is a minor and I am an adult? And even if I don't get in trouble with the law, do apartment owners have the right to know whether a couple is married or not? I'm having my doubts because of this kid's age. Please help.

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: At the risk of sounding like a broken record, if you are concerned about your "rights" and "the law," consult a lawyer. (The laws differ from state to state.) You are wise to have second thoughts. A 16-year-old boy who was kicked out by his parents because he did "lousy" in school would probably make a lousy roommate.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law (I'll call her "Nancy") has just had her second miscarriage in two years. Of course we feel very sorry for her because she has no children and she wants a child very much.

The problem, however, is Nancy's mother (my mother-in-law). She has asked everyone in the family not to talk about their children or even mention "babies" in front of Nancy because it might upset her.

Two of us in the family are pregnant right now, and this request seems ridiculous to me. She has even said that out of consideration to Nancy, if there are going to be any baby showers, they should be done "quietly" so Nancy won't know about them.

I would like your opinion on this.

BABY BLUES

DEAR BLUES: Nancy's mother may mean well, but she's protective of Nancy to the point of being unrealistic. Of course you shouldn't allow the subject of babies to dominate the conversation in Nancy's presence, but you also shouldn't go to ridiculous extremes to shield her.

DEAR ABBY: How can I tell my friends that it's in poor taste to question a divorcee about her "ex"? After 24 years of what everyone (including me) thought was a good marriage, my husband ran off with another woman. That was two years ago, and people still ask me, "What do you hear from Lester?"

What do they expect me to hear from him? Just before our daughter was married last June, people nearly drove me crazy, asking, "Is her father going to give her away?" And, "Did you invite 'him' and his new wife to the wedding?"

Abby, I'm not the kind of person who can tell people off, but I'd sure like to know how to respond to questions I hate to answer.

Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Not the Same Disease as Polio

Q. Ms. N. D. writes that her 43-year-old uncle has enjoyed vigorous health for years but has become paralyzed gradually. He has a disease, "ALS," about which she knows little. His physicians are not hopeful about his case. She asks for comment.

A. Your uncle has a relatively rare but serious disease with a long name, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, often referred to as ALS.

The cause of the disease is unknown. Therefore, the treatment is largely to relieve symptoms. The average case terminates in death in two or three years. Some laymen regard this disease as a sort of chronic form of infantile paralysis or polio. They are unrelated. Polio is due to a virus and preventable by a vaccine.

For some unknown reason, the nerve cells in the brain and spinal cord that supply muscles die out, gradually giving paralysis of the affected muscles in ALS cases.

The signs and symptoms depend on which muscles are involved. Varying amounts of paralysis of the arms and legs may occur. Sometimes, the limb muscles may become tight or spastic. Such disability is not life-threatening and can be helped by physical therapy, such as heat and limited exercise of the remaining muscles. Medicine is not significantly beneficial. Death of the nerves which supply muscles needed in breathing or swallowing is more critical and usually offers a potential threat to life.

Many years ago, this disease received wide public attention because it crippled and later killed the famous "iron man" of baseball, Lou Gehrig, first baseman for the New York Yankees.

A national voluntary health organization has been formed to promote further research and education regarding ALS. Additional information may be obtained by writing to the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Society, 12011 San Vicente Blvd., Suite 350, Los Angeles, California 90049.

THE PILL AND SEXUAL DESIRE

Q. Mrs. B. I. wants to know if taking the Pill will increase her sexual desire.

The Pill is composed of "sex" hormones, but sexual desire and carrying out sexual intercourse are too complicated to expect hormones to be contributing factors of significance.

However, the Pill offers considerable assurance that pregnancy will not result from having sex freely and without other protection. This assurance helps a woman to relax and be relatively free of the fear of pregnancy. These conditions can assist in her enjoyment of sex and may increase her sexual desire.

Abandoning Korea

WASHINGTON — The same Carter administration document that contemplates losing one-third of West Germany to a Soviet attack contends that removing U.S. troops from South Korea gives Washington "flexibility" to determine whether or not to intervene against Communist invasion from the north.

PRM (Presidential Review Memorandum) 10, a top secret inter-agency study of U.S. force structures, also is gloomy about holding the South Korean capital of Seoul against invading North Koreans today. Even with U.S. air and naval intervention and U.S. troops still stationed in South Korea, the study suggests Seoul cannot be held.

All this contradicts President Carter's assurances that his decision to remove the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division does not undercut the U.S. commitment to South Korea. It also undermines current military doctrine based on the retention of Seoul as a necessity. Thus, South Koreans face the same problem as the West Germans: shall they believe public pronouncements of U.S. leaders or private documents of their staff experts?

The administration's claim that PRM-10 merely discusses options is simply untrue. Just as PRM-10 states that present allied forces could not hold one-third of Germany, its disturbing comments on Korea are based on conditions before and after the U.S. troop pullout, not on any option.

"Once the U.S. land forces are out of Korea," says PRM-10, "the U.S. has transformed its presence in Asia from a land-based posture to an off-shore posture. This...provides the U.S. 'flexibility' to determine at the time whether it should or should not get involved in a local war."

The document goes on to reveal an unpublished reason for removing the 2nd Division: to give Washington the choice of whether or not to intervene. With the troops gone, says PRM-10, "the risk of automatic involvement which was a major factor in removing land forces from Korea" is minimized. However, should the U.S. decide to intervene, military forces would be readily available.

Even with the 2nd Division still on station and the U.S. supplying "initial air and naval support at D-Day," PRM-10 spins a grim scenario: "If the North Koreans were to achieve tactical surprise, it is possible that they could at least temporarily attain their most likely major objective — the capture of Seoul."

While predicting North Korea could not win "a sustained combat," it predicates this on major U.S. help. "With the U.S. contributions of land and carrier based tactical air assets and material support, it would appear that the U.S. and ROK (Republic of Korea) would prevail against North Korea in the longer term, but with possible initial setbacks — including perhaps the fall of Seoul."

Without U.S. help, the situation is desperate, according to PRM-10: "The level of forces which could be brought to bear at the front on D-Day would generally favor North Korea over the ROK in all categories...The ROK has widely spread infantry forces with limited mobility and vulnerable stocks of war material."

The document implies a return to the old U.S. strategy of keeping allied troops away from the DMZ and instead falling back on Seoul. Now-retired Lt. Gen. James Hollingsworth changed that when he took command nearly four years ago, contending the North Koreans wanted to capture Seoul quickly and then start debilitating peace negotiations. So, allied strategy changed to a forward defense of Seoul.

Such a defense requires Korean confidence in U.S. readiness to supply indispensable airpower. South Korea long has worried that its defense pact with Washington provides a less automatic U.S. response to invasion than does the NATO treaty. President Carter's July 25 letter sought to reassure President Park Chung Hee that the U.S. troop pullout does not mean "any change whatsoever in our commitment."

PRM-10 undercuts all of South Korea's expectations. While emphasizing that only U.S. air and naval intervention could stop an invasion, it now makes that intervention a matter of choice rather than automatic response.

After our column reported the PRM-10 assessment of a Soviet attack in Central Europe, a senior West German army officer secretly visited Washington to find the truth. Interviews with 30 people, the general said, left "not the shadow of doubt in my mind" that the column was accurate despite White House denials. South Korea's generals may now begin a similar process with hopes that the answer will be more reassuring than the findings of their German colleague.

An AP News Analysis

LRC Taking No Chances On Constitution Revision

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — They laughed in 1975 when the idealists and the intellectuals predicted that Kentuckians would vote for an overhaul of the state's court system.

Even the Legislative Research Commission, which is supposed to keep close tabs on such matters, was stunned when the proposed amendment passed, and legislative committees had to crank up quickly to cope with making the changes.

This far it's the proposed revision of Kentucky's 1891 constitution that's supposed to be swamped by organized opposition, the innate conservatism of voters and the formidable 291,785 yes votes necessary for passage, in an off-year election.

But the LRC is taking no chances. It has assigned a staffer, Mary Helen Wilson, to devote full time to the topic.

It also has just published two reports she compiled.

One is "A Citizen's Guide to the Kentucky Constitution" — 117 pages plus 38 additional pages reprinting the constitution itself.

The other is "A Perspective of Constitutional Revision in Kentucky," containing 64 pages.

The LRC, comprising the bipartisan General Assembly leadership, is not supposed to take sides in a controversy.

"It says it merely is dispensing information on proposed revision, and is especially sensitive these days — with accusations of bias already made by anti-revisionists."

One value of Mrs. Wilson's perspective report is that it tells what would happen if Kentuckians approve changing the constitution.

This would be the timetable if passage should occur Nov. 8:

—The 1978 General Assembly would pass enabling legislation for the meeting of a constitutional convention and election of delegates.

—The delegates would be elected Nov. 8, 1978.

—The convention would meet within 90 days after that.

—Sometime in 1979, after proper notice, Kentuckians would vote again, this time on the proposed constitution.

—In 1980, the General Assembly would draw up the statutes to the new constitution.

This entire process began in 1974 when the legislature voted to approve "taking the sense of the people on calling a constitutional convention."

The 1976 legislature essentially had to go through the same process again.

Thus, from the first proposal to the final statutes would theoretically take six years.

Those are the bare bones. If there really is a constitutional convention, according to the LRC account, it would have to meet in Frankfort.

There would be 100 delegates, the same number as there are state representatives.

The delegates would be elected from legislative districts. They would have to be at least 24, citizens of Kentucky, residents of the state for at least two years, and residents of their districts for at least one year.

The precise time they would convene would be set by the 1978 General Assembly.

Traditionally, the governor calls such a convention to order and delivers an address. Then a president takes over and the work is done by committees appointed by him.

"Public hearings are held, research is conducted and issues are debated," Mrs. Wilson said. "The committees prepare reports to the convention which again debates and finally votes on the committee recommendations."

After the convention the revised constitution is submitted to voters for approval.

Thus, Kentuckians vote not only on whether to hold the revision convention, but on whether to adopt its finished product.

"Let's just forget about human rights during the ceremony--"

The Editor's Notebook

By GENE McCUTCHEON

Murray Ledger & Times Editor

Later this month we understand the Carter Administration will divulge what is advertised as the most sweeping tax overhaul proposal by any President since the introduction of the federal income tax in 1913. This advertising naturally raises expectations, although one prudently lowers them upon realizing that it has been presidential habit for the past quarter of a century to talk up "tax overhaul" only to muck up the tax system later.

And one lowers expectations still further upon reflecting on the particulars, so far as they can be discerned, in the proposed Carter overhaul. The plan is not sweeping overhaul in the sense needed, namely, one that scraps the old system and builds a new one from scratch on the principles of simplicity, equity, and efficiency. Rather, the plan seems to keep the same old tax structure. It nods toward simplicity, turns its nose toward efficiency, and grabs eagerly at equity to justify a claim to be the most sweeping tax overhaul ever.

Obviously, equity by itself won't justify anything of the sort, certainly not equity as the Carter Administration seems to understand it. Apparently the program will propose, for example, that the distinction between capital gains and ordinary income be abolished. The full amount of a capital gain, instead of half as now, would be taxed at regular rates. At work here is an assumption that equity requires investment income to be treated exactly like a paycheck. In a United States without inflation, equity might require such equal treatment, but today surely equity requires a treatment of capital gains that allows for the bites of inflation.

Looking further, we find that the Carter Administration isn't much of a stickler anyway about taxing all income the same. Apparently it will propose to tax capital gains on personal residences in the old way. The principle at work here is that it is good to make a profit on your home, but bad to make one on commercial property or in the stock market. In other words, it's good to be a homeowner, bad to be a businessman.

If there seems in these two proposals more demagoguery than equity, the impression is confirmed upon finding that the tax deductions now allowable for executive lunches and other business expenses are to be abolished. Never mind that the revenues from these sources would be negligible; the symbol of "fairness" to the lunch-pail worker is what the Administration is after.

Indeed, more than anything else, symbolism is what the Carter Administration is after throughout the proposals so far floated — symbolism that would please populists, but hardly withstand rigorous analysis. This symbolism, we should add, is paramount despite how the "most sweeping tax overhaul ever" would affect the Administration's goal of balancing the budget. The resultant $5 billion to $15 billion in net revenue reduction implies that the Administration is looking for ways to cut an equivalent amount in federal spending. But budget reductions are not in vogue at the White House.

Nor, to put it another way, is genuine tax reform. Already government takes entirely too much of the Gross National Product. Unfortunately, Mr. Carter in just eight months in office already has proposed new federal spending on energy, social security, welfare, etc. — well more than $100 billion.

We dearly would like to be surprised later this month by a tax package that would give us the most sweeping tax overhaul since 1913, and indeed the right kind of one. But from first appearances, and from knowledge of the burdensome taxes already proposed, genuine tax reform is not only not in reach, but fast receding.

Mrs. Jack Winter and Mrs. James Hart are serving Dr. and Mrs. Donald Hughes at the "Buffet Russe" staged Sunday evening at the University Branch of the Bank of Murray for Murray Civic Music Association Workers.

A capacity crowd filled the dining room of the University Branch of the Bank of Murray and enjoyed a Russian buffet prepared under the direction of Can McDaniel, a new MCMA board member.

Buffet Russe Kicks Off MCMA Season

The Murray Civic Music Association Board of Directors kicked-off their 19th season Sunday with a buffet honoring the workers who will be canvassing West Kentucky and West Tennessee, September 12th through the 16th, selling subscriptions to the five concerts which have been booked by the Association.

The gala evening carried a Russian theme inasmuch as the first attraction of the season will be the Soviet Georgian Dancers, who will be appearing Sunday, October 9th in Lovett Auditorium.

The invited guests heard remarks from the association president, Jack Winter, and vice president for funding, Betty Lowry, as they enjoyed Russian punch served by Mrs. Jana Hughes and Mrs. Jackie Overbey in the lobby of the University Branch of the Bank of Murray.

Having received their instructions, the enthusiastic campaign workers were then invited to the dining area of the bank where they enjoyed a dinner of stroganoff, beets a la Russe, and cheese and fruits. The candlelit room was filled to capacity and the guest were in a festive mood as they listened to dinner music provided by Earl Byassee, Jr. at the piano.

In addition to Soviet Dancers, Murray Civic Music Association will present The Louisville Orchestra on Sunday, October 30, 1977; Andre' Watts, pianist, on Friday, January 27, 1978; Pittsburgh Ballet on Monday, March 6, 1978; and Clamma Dale, soprano, on Tuesday, April 11, 1978.

As in the past, the reciprocal agreement with the Paducah Community Concert Series will permit local members to attend those concerts.

The membership campaign will have its headquarters at the Bank of Murray during banking hours this week. No tickets will be sold after September 16th.

Worst Loss Since 1971

Racers Humiliated 38-0 By Rugged Delta State

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Delta State University is appropriately named. There's a reason for all the cotton growing around Cleveland. Students go out and pick cotton during the second half of Delta State's football games then they have a truckload of the soft white stuff waiting beside the visiting team's bus.

It would have taken an entire cotton field to help absorb the wounds Murray State suffered Saturday night in a 38-0 loss to Delta State. And had not the Statesmen "called off the dogs," it would have been a lot worse than 38-0.

The question is: Was Delta State that good or was Murray State that bad? The answer: "I was surprised with the score," Delta State coach Robert McGraw said.

"We did a little better offensively than I thought we'd do. We've always played pretty good defense and I felt if we could score a couple of touchdowns, we could win the game."

"How good we are, I don't know yet. We were picked to finish fifth in our conference and I'm not really very optimistic about our chances. We're just taking things one game at a time right now. We may have to go out and win 3-0 next week," McGraw added.

It's doubtful Delta State will win only 3-0. They play at Southeast Missouri Saturday and since even Murray defeated SEMO, then it would seem Delta State is off to a 2-0 start.

For some reason, the stadium and field Saturday night were filled with crickets. There were thousands of crickets and if they weren't bad enough, there were thousands of moths and believe it or not, even a few boll weevils.

The people in the stands made quite a few jokes about which crickets the louder: the crickets when they were stepped on or the Murray State football team when they tried to do anything, either offensively or defensively.

Last year, there were a few times when other teams managed to score off Murray State's offense. Such wasn't the case Saturday. Delta State ran all over Murray's defense. They ran up the middle well, they ran off tackle well. But the outside...

It was like Murray State had no defensive ends, no cornerbacks, no... In fact, at halftime, Delta State had rolled up a 28-0 lead and 226 yards on the ground. Murray had 22 net rushing yards.

But it was the outside game of the Statesmen that killed the Racers. Delta State ran at will, piling up yardage and leaving the Murray defense piled up on the ground with the crickets and moths.

From the opening touchdown of the game, which incidentally found Sam Killingsworth of the Statesmen going wide to the left on a pitchout for the nine-yard TD run, there was no doubt about who was going to win.

The second TD, which came early in the second quarter, came on a sweep to the right then on the third TD, quarterback Charles Minyard got his second straight score as he swept to the left. Believe it or not, the final TD of the half for Delta State came on a one-yard plunge up the middle.

Only once in the entire first half was Murray across midfield. The reason for that: the Racers recovered a fumble on the Statesmen 42. Murray had a fourth and one from the 32 and elected to try the field goal, which was short.

Other than that, the Racers crossed the midfield twice more in the game. Freshman Lindsey Hudspeth almost broke a kickoff return and carried the ball from the six up to the 47. Thanks to a 15-yard penalty, Murray managed to get across midfield.

Then on their last series of the game, the Racers actually came close to scoring. After taking over first and 10 from the Delta State 39 following a punt, the Racers worked down to the Statesmen 7. On a fourth and three from the seven, a Mike Dickens pass was intercepted in the endzone.

Murray finished with a total of 33 yards on the ground. Murray attempted 28 rushing plays and 13 of those were by quarterback Mike Dickens and three more were by second-string quarterback David Ruzich. That meant that the fullback and the three tailbacks that saw action had between them, only 12 attempts.

Delta State carried the ball 59 times and gained 324 yards on the ground with tailback Floyd Fortenberry gaining 111 yards on 25 carries.

"We had some boys come off the ball very well on offense," Delta State coach Robert McGraw said.

"Murray was a little bigger than we were but I think we utilized our speed to make up for it. Our fullback (Ricky Conerly) is basically a good blocker and we used him a lot to get outside," McGraw said.

For Murray, it was the worst loss (in points) since the Racers were humiliated 41-0 in 1971 by Martin, who may be capable of doing the same thing this year when the teams play later in the season at Martin.

How did Murray State coach Bill Furgerson sum it up? "They just beat the h... out of us. I don't have anything

While Furgerson may not have had much to say about the game, he will have a lot to say to his team over the next week.

The Racers have an off-date Saturday and will not resume action until September 24 when Tennessee Tech visits Stewart Stadium.

Tech opened its season Saturday with a 41-21 win at Western Carolina.

If the Racers are to be a conference contender, it's time to take some time.

Vilas Sitting At Top Of World

By CHRISTY BARBEE

AP Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)

Guillermo Vilas is No. 1 today, a proud, self-satisfied young man.

"I'm very happy with myself," he said. "I'm a very good friend of myself."

His critics had said his scorching clay court victory streak of 45 matches was not meaningful as it seemed because it included no matches against the giants of the game of tennis, Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors.

But Sunday, the 25-year-old Argentine with the extreme topspin backhand, outplayed Connors 2-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-0 in the $462,420 U.S. Open championships. He hasn't had a crack yet at Borg, who had to default during this tournament because of a strained shoulder.

"This puts me very, very happy for sure," the bright-eyed and exuberant Vilas said after being mobbed by adoring fans at the West Side Tennis Club. The crowd had decided the match was over before the umpire "did, streaming onto the court as soon as the linesman called a Connors forehand long."

Saturday, the glory was Chris Evert's, as outpunching Wendy Turnbull of Australia 7-6, 6-2 for her third consecutive U.S. Open title. It was roses for both the finalists, but the Open victory was particularly sweet for Miss Evert after her loss in the Wimbledon semifinal to Virginia Wade.

Prize money for each of the winners was $33,000, with $16,500 apiece to Connors and Miss Turnbull.

Vilas, blocked by his admirers and hoisted atop their shoulders, never congratulated Connors, who stormed away from the stadium with his mother and entourage. "I will apologize when I see him," Vilas said. "I wanted to shake his hand."

"He is a great player," he said of Connors. "I have a lot of respect for him. I think he played fair. I had nothing to lose. I knew the pressure was on him since he had not won a major title (this year) and this was his last chance."

Winds gusting up to 20 miles per hour swept over the court, blowing great clouds of dust on them from the synthetic clay like Har-Tru surface. "The wind was very strange," Vilas said of his losing first set. "He was hitting rockets."

But in the second set, as Vilas became more certain, coming in on more balls, Connors grew slightly tentative, and the Argentine was able to break him in the eighth game for 5-3. Vilas, the No. 4 seed, drew a roaring standing ovation as he took the next game with a backhand passing shot.

The third set went to 5-5 and each broke the other's service at love, forcing a tie-breaker. It was reminiscent of the third-set situation Connors faced last year in the final against Borg. But last year, Connors outlasted Borg 11-9 in the tiebreaker and went on to victory.

The tie-breaker went to 3-3, then Vilas moved up to the net for a forehand volley winner. Connors netted a forehand, then Vilas hit one wide, making it 5-4. Vilas hit a forehand to the baseline for 6-4 and won on a swift forehand passing shot.

That gave Vilas extreme confidence. He then broke service in the second game of the fourth set with a crosscourt backhand that touched the sideline, broke again in the fourth when Connors' forehand volley hit the net, then kept his serve, pummeling Connors at love for 5-0.

In the final game, the two were playing the second deuce, forced when Connors doublefaulted. Vilas took the advantage when the struggling Connors hit his forehand approach into the net. Their final rally had just begun when Connors hit his forehand too long.

The linesman saw it that way. Vilas thought he had. Connors stood and stared. Vilas' coach, Ion Tiriac, stood at his court-side seat and looked stern as a bull. The umpire said nothing. But the crowd had decided. The umpire made it official several moments later.

For Miss Evert, her final was the toughest match of the tournament. She had been asking for it all week, complaining politely that she wasn't getting enough competition.

Miss Turnbull provided it with the scurrying game that has given her the name "rabbit" among her World Team Tennis colleagues on the Cleveland Nets.

"She made me play my very best," Miss Evert said. "She played very well and she now can be considered one of the best players in the world."

Despite the loss, Miss Turnbull, seeded 12th, received the recognition that had long avoided her. She beat Ms. Wade and second-seeded Martina Navratilova en route to the final.

The first-set tie-breaker came after 12 games of steady rallies of ground strokes, and Miss Evert won it 7-3.

"Then I let her break me in the first game of the second set and she ran away with it," Miss Turnbull said. "It is really tough to play Chrissie on clay and I think I played very well. I'm really not disappointed."

Even as a loser, Miss Turnbull advanced further than she ever had in a major tournament.

Miss Evert seemed undisturbed by a pinched nerve in her left shoulder, saying it hurt only on the toss for her serve. She said she hadn't seen a doctor yet because she was superstitious.

"If I'm going to get it amputated, I don't want to know about it until after the tournament," Miss Evert joked.

To Defend Title

BANGKOK (AP) — World Boxing Council (WBC) superlightweight champion Saensak Muangsurin of Thailand will defend his title against Saoul Mamby of New York in northeastern Thailand next month, Saensak's manager said today.

Tiemboon Intrabutr said the 15-round bout will be held Oct. 22 in Korat, 130 miles northeast of Bangkok.

Mamby is ranked fourth by the WBC.

POURING IT ON — Sophomore quarterback Charles Minyard of Delta State pours it on and the Statesmen pour it on even more. Minyard scampered 19 yards down the left side for this six-pointer. Racers who are in the picture include Roy Hackley (40), Bobby Craig (94), Kevin Whitfield (65), Willie Wilson (55) and Bill Shannon (93).

FIRING AWAY — Racer quarterback Mike Dickens, who hit on 12 of 18 passes for 88 yards, fires one down the middle as Delta State defenders put on a little pressure. Two of Dickens' passes were intercepted.

ALMOST GONE — Lindsey Hudspeth of the Racers returns the ball 41 yards and almost breaks loose for a touchdown run but he finally was chased out of bounds on the left side. It was about the only offense the Racers mustered in their 38-0 loss to Delta State.

Mel Purcell Returns To Defend Crown

Purcells Romp Field In State Hardcourt Tourney

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Mel Purcell hadn't planned on playing in the Kentucky State Hardcourt Tennis Championships.

But after his partner defaulted in the mixed doubles at the U.S. Open because she had to catch a plane, Purcell decided to come back to Murray for the weekend and defend his tennis titles in the tourney.

It was both unfortunate and fortunate that he did return.

It was unfortunate for those who had hoped for a shot at winning the title yet it was fortunate because it presented the people of Murray one more chance to see Purcell play.

Purcell left Sunday night after the tourney and returned to school at Memphis State.

Later this month, Purcell will be going along with doubles partner Chip Hooper on a goodwill mission to Africa.

Not only was Mel Purcell a dominating force in the tourney but so were his brother, Del, and his father, Bennie.

The Purcells simply owned the tourney.

In the open singles division, Mel Purcell coasted to an easy 6-2, 6-0 win in the finals over Keith West of Memphis State. Last year when the two met for the title, Purcell won 6-4, 6-0.

"I played all right but I don't think Keith was up to his game," Purcell said of his win.

Purcell had advanced into the finals by taking a 6-0, 6-1 win over former MSU tennis player Ross Boling. A native of Bowling Green, Boling is now a teaching professional in Detroit and came down simply to play in the tourney.

West, who plays the number two singles for Memphis State, defeated teammate Peter Simpson one and one in the other semifinal match. Needless to say, Purcell will be playing number one in the singles for Memphis State.

The doubles championship match in the opening division was a replay of last year. The Purcell brothers combined to win 7-5 and 6-2 over West and Simpson.

But the actual championship match came in the semifinals in one of the best doubles matches ever staged on the MSU courts.

After losing the first set 5-7 to Mark Alvarez and Kevin Walsh of the University of Louisville, the Purcells bounced back to win 7-5 and 6-4 to take the match.

The Purcells literally climbed the fences in pursuit of shots. It seemed as if some of the points lasted for hours. It was a dazzling display of tennis and when the match ended, there was a long and loud ovation, not just for the Purcells because they had won but for the quality of tennis that was played by the two teams.

Bennie Purcell's turn came in the 45 and over singles as the 47-year-old MSU tennis coach zipped to the crown. The top-seeded Purcell had no trouble at all until he got to the second set of the championship match against Paul Rowton of Paducah.

Purcell took the first set 6-4 but Rowton took the second set 7-5. But Purcell came back in the third to take a 6-2 win and the set, defending his crown from last year.

Purcell and Rowton then combined in the doubles for an unbeatable duo. In the finals, they won one and three over the Paducah pair of Frank Nagel and Sid Edds, who had earlier went split sets in the semifinals to defeat Fred Paxton of Paducah and Ray Edwards of Mayfield.

It was the same story as last year also in the 35 singles as Henry Baughman of Bowling Green claimed the championship. In the finals, he won 6-1 and 6-2 over Willie Chandler of Jackson. Baughman reached the finals with a 7-6, 6-0 win in the semis over Ron Underwood of Murray while Chandler won by default over Ronnie Smith of Campbellsville.

In the 35 doubles play, Baughman and Smith combined for a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Underwood and Chandler.

Plans had called for a 50 and over division but there were not enough participants entered and players who were 50 and over had to play in the 45 singles.

For Mel Purcell, it will be on to Africa and then back to Memphis State where he will spend the winter working on his game at one of the indoor clubs in Memphis.

Purcell, who said he does not plan to go professional next year, will probably make the satellite tour next summer and return to school for another year. But it's just a matter of time before he'll have to turn pro. There's just not that much competition left at the amateur level.

The women will get their turn to earn some hardware this weekend as the Kentucky State Women's Hardcourt Championships will be held at the MSU Tennis Complex.

PURCELL SMASHES — Mel Purcell prepares to send a booming smash for a point in his championship match against Keith West in the opening singles play. Purcell coasted to an easy win over West, 6-2, 6-0.

The game was scheduled to begin at 5 p. m. but has been changed to 5:30 p. m.

The Laker jayvees, who are 0-1 on the season, will be going against Heath. Last Thursday, the Laker freshmen won 8-6 over the Heath frosh so the Pirates will be out to salvage some revenge this evening.

A WINNING TEAM — Paul Rowton returns a shot while doubles partner Bennie Purcell plays the net and watches across court. Rowton and Purcell easily won the championship in the 45 and over doubles play.

Parker Reaches 200-Hit Level As Pirates Crush Expos 10-4

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates' "Hit Man" is putting out a contract on all National League pitchers.

"If the game situation allows it, I think I'll be swinging for home runs the rest of the year," says Dave Parker.

His primary goal, of course, is to help the Pirates win the National League East title, but the way the Philadelphia Phillies are playing, that may be an impossible dream.

More within Parker's grasp is a season of 100 runs batted in. He already has reached a cherished level—the 200-hit mark—and is on his way to the league's batting title with a .345 average.

The broad-shouldered Parker continued to kill National League pitching Sunday with a home run, triple and double while leading the Pirates to a 10-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Parker became the first National League player to reach the 200-hit plateau this season with his double in the first inning. Later, his home run made more news because it matched an accomplishment by the late Roberto Clemente.

The homer was Parker's 20th and he became the first Pirates player to collect 20 homers and 200 hits in the same season since Clemente did it in 1967.

With two RBI Sunday, Parker improved his total to 86.

While Parker was having a good day, so was Greg Luzinski of the Phillies. He blasted a three-run homer, leading Philadelphia to a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals that kept the Phillies in front of the Pirates by eight games.

In other NL action Sunday, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2, the New York Mets trimmed the Chicago Cubs 7-3, the Atlanta Braves whipped the San Diego Padres 7-3, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Houston Astros 2-1.

Reds 6, Dodgers 2

Johnny Bench's two-run double triggered a four-run first inning and gave the Cincinnati catcher 100 RBI for the sixth time in his career as the Reds defeated Los Angeles. Bench's double tied him with ex-teammate Tony Perez as the only active major league player with six 100 RBI seasons.

Rookie Tom Hume registered his first major league victory after relieving starter Jack Billingham in the third inning.

Royals Running Away, Yankees Starting To Fold Down Stretch

By BARRY WILNER

AP Sports Writer

While the Kansas City Royals are running away with one American League divisional race, the New York Yankees have allowed the other one to tighten up.

The Royals won their 12th straight game Sunday, beating the Minnesota Twins 4-1. The Royals have an 8½-game lead over Chicago and appear headed for their second straight West Division title.

The Yankees, meanwhile, split a doubleheader with the expansionist Toronto Blue Jays, winning the first game 4-3 and losing the nightcap 6-4. Their lead over second-place Boston shrunk to 1½ games as the two teams get ready for a crucial three-game series in New York that begins Tuesday.

The Yankees didn't play particularly good ball against the Blue Jays, whose 48-93 record is the worst in the major leagues. After being humiliated 19-3 by the Blue Jays Saturday, New York could manage only a split of the two games Sunday.

Red Sox 6, Tigers 2

Boston won its fifth straight game and 10th in its last 11, concluding a four-game sweep of Detroit. Jim Rice, the American League's home run leader, belted the first grand slam of his career in the seventh inning, his 37th homer of the season.

"Some people wrote us off a week ago, but here we are, just one game back in the loss column," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "Now we just have to go in there (to New York) and win some ballgames."

Orioles 9, Indians 5

The Orioles completed a three-game sweep of Cleveland, leaving the Indians winless in eight games in Baltimore this year. The Orioles' Ken Singleton, batting .404 since Aug. 3, drove in three runs with a double and single and teammate Doug DeCinces drove in three runs and hit his 17th homer of the season in support of Ross Grimsley's pitching.

Baltimore moved within three games of the Yankees with their 13th victory in 17 games. During that streak, however, they have picked up just one game on New York.

Mariners 6, Rangers 4

Jimmy Sexton had four hits and Dan Meyer hit his 20th homer as the Mariners topped Texas. Jim Sundberg and Mike Hargrove had solo homers for the Rangers.

"I've had scouts tell me I could play up here," said Sexton, who was recalled from the minor leagues last week. "I don't want to go back to the minors."

A's 5, Brewers 3

Tony Armas drove in three Oakland runs with a double and a homer and Vida Blue won his 14th game in 31 decisions, striking out seven and surrendering seven hits until being relieved by Doug Bair in the ninth.

White Sox 6-4, Angels 2-5

Chris Knapp hurled a three-hitter and struck out 13 in the opener. Knapp, recalled from Iowa of the American Association last week, had a no-hitter until Rance Mulliniks singled with two out in the seventh.

Jorge Orta had four hits and drove in four runs in the opener.

Mario Guerrero doubled home Bobby Bonds with the winning run in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

CORNSTALK BALING—An Amish farmer near New Holland, Pa., uses a mule-drawn gasoline engine-powered baler to harvest corn stalks for animal bedding. A shortage of straw in the Northeast has driven straw prices as high as $95 at auction in the area. Corn stalks are increasingly being used as a substitute for straw as animal bedding. This scene will be common on Amish farms during the coming fall corn harvest season.

Tips For Making Silage

Making corn silage will produce the most feed, and the most beef or milk, from an acre of the crop — if it is done right.

"For maximum yield of high quality silage and a minimum of spoilage cut corn relatively fine when the crop is in the right stage of maturity, pack the silage well and fill the silo fast," says Garry Lacefield, Extension forage specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

He recommends cutting as soon as corn reaches physiological maturity, after ears are well-dented but before all the leaves turn brown and dry. Optimum moisture content is from 60 to 65 per cent. Cutting earlier than the dent stage will reduce the grain or energy content of the silage, and result in seepage, fermentation losses, bad odor and poor flavor. Letting the corn get too dry makes the silage difficult to pack and causes losses from heating and molding.

A simple squeeze test can be used to check moisture content. Take a handful of fresh-chopped silage, squeeze the material in your hand and then release it," says Lacefield. "If the ball of silage tends to stay tight, leaving drops of water in your hand, it is too wet. If the silage ball expands slowly, leaving your hand moist but without drops of water, the corn is right for chopping. If the silage ball springs back and falls apart readily, with little or no moisture present, the material is too dry to pack well, and water should be added."

When making silage, the goal is to get food fermentation which is necessary to preserve the material. This means eliminating oxygen as quickly as possible to reduce respiration and providing the right conditions for the growth of desirable acid-forming bacteria.

The Extension specialist recommends keeping silage harvester knives sharp and adjusting them for a relatively fine cut of one-fourth to one-half inch in length. When corn is cut at the right stage of maturity with the proper adjustment of equipment, about 90 per cent of the kernels will be broken. If harvesting is delayed past the hard-dent stage, it may be necessary to set knives for a cut one-eighth inch long or use a re-cutter.

Silos should be filled rapidly, with the silage distributed evenly and well-packed. Packing is especially important in horizontal silos such as trenches or bunkers. Lacefield points out that after these silos are filled it is a good practice to sprinkle water on top and pack an extra two or three inches. Then they should be covered with black plastic to get a tight seal and reduce top spoilage.

Lacefield cautions farmers to be very careful to avoid accidents when packing silage with a tractor or truck. A vehicle can tip over easily if it hits a loose pocket or slips off the side.

Farmers with upright silos are warned by the Extension specialist to be aware of the danger from toxic gases. Although the gases may be present any time, even in an empty silo, the greatest danger is 12 to 72 hours after the silo has been filled. Lacefield emphasizes that toxic gases may be present in any ensiled material, regardless of the soil fertility level in the field where it was grown.

USDA To Make Longer Term Loans On Storage

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today announced it is changing the farm facility loan repayment period from the current 5 years up to maximum of 8 years. The Department feels that lengthening the repayment period and increasing the number of annual installments will help lessen the case flow problems of farmers obtaining loans.

According to Department spokesmen, a longer repayment period is needed because of recent changes in the program which (1) increased the maximum loan amount for $25,000 to $50,000, (2) allows storages needs to be based on 2 years' production rather than 1, and (3) decreased farmers' required downpayments from 30 per cent to 15 per cent of the cost of structures and equipment. The effect of these changes will be to substantially increase the size of the average loan.

By increasing the number of installment payments, each installment will be smaller, thus allowing farmers more flexibility and lessening the possibility of delinquent or defaulted loan, according to the Department.

The farm facility loan program is administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) through its county offices. From 1949 through 1976 the program loaned over $1 billion to assist farmers in building farm facilities with storage capacity of over 2.4 billion bushels.

Nuts usually cost less when you buy them in the shell. Already shelled, they're a real convenience food. To help you decide which is the best buy, note how many pounds of nuts-in-the-shell it takes to get one pound of nutmeats:

3½ pounds of almonds, 2½ pounds of pecans or English walnuts or Brazil nuts, and 5½ pounds of black walnuts. This information comes from UK Extension food specialists.

MEMBER OF THE MONTH — Steve Enoch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Enoch of Hazel Route One, was selected by the Calloway County Chapter of Future Farmers of America as Member of the Month for August. Enoch was selected as a result of winning the State FFA Quiz Contest at Hardinsburg on July 21. The quiz contest is conducted much like a spelling bee with contestants answering questions concerning the history and organization of the FFA. Enoch won the local contest in March to move on to state competition. He is a junior at Calloway County High School.

HERNDON NAMED DIRECTOR OF WOMEN

Marsha Herndon, 25-year-old McLean County native, has been named director of women for Kentucky Farm Bureau, replacing Vivian Moore, who has retired.

Ms. Herndon, who comes to Farm Bureau after two years as extension clothing specialist for the University of Kentucky, will be responsible for coordinating Farm Bureau's women's activities at county, district and state levels.

She will work closely with the 11-member KFB Women's Advisory Committee, and with county women's chairmen throughout the state. Such activities as king and queen contests, style revues and talent competition are conducted regularly by Farm Bureau women, in addition to full participation in issue-related general activities of the organization.

A graduate of Livermore High School, Ms. Herndon holds BS and MS degrees from the University of Kentucky in home economics-textiles, clothing and merchandising. Prior to her employment by the University, she worked for two large clothing stores, in Lexington and in Chevy Chase, Maryland.

She holds membership in the American Home

Economics Association, and served for one year as secretary-treasurer of the Association of Kentucky Extension Specialists. Ms. Herndon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Herndon, Livermore.

Mrs. Moore served as part-time women's director for Farm Bureau during the past nine years. She is a former state chairman of Kentucky Farm Bureau Women, and served on the KFB Board of Directors in 1969-72.

A resident of La Center, in Ballard County, Mrs. Moore served for four years on the Ballard County Farm Bureau Board of Directors.

Mrs. Moore has two children, a son, Dick, and a daughter, Nancy. Her husband, the late Joe Moore, was a Ballard County farmer and active member of the county Farm Bureau board.

DAIRY FUND HIKE UP FOR VOTE

Dairy officials are urging a "Yes" vote by farmers in the Kentucky Dairy Referendum, set to be held during October.

Dairy farmers will be voting on whether they want to raise their current assessment for promotional activities from 4 cents to 8 cents per 100 pounds of milk sold. The current 4-cent rate was adopted in 1968.

Inflation, stronger competition and changing lifestyles by consumers are given as primary reasons for increasing the amount of funding for advertising milk products, officials say. Advertising rates jumped 25 per cent last year alone, following an increase of 19 per cent from 1971 through 1975.

Soft drink and fruit juice marketers outspend the dairy industry almost 7 to 1 on advertising, and these competitors are eroding some of milk's sales, according to the American Dairy Association. In addition, increased sales of imitation products, changing dietary habits of children, and the upsurge in numbers of meals eaten away from home, where milk is seldom consumed, are all factors which should be considered by dairymen before they vote, ADA says.

Fall Liming Best For Tobacco Fields

Applying lime in tobacco fields this fall will prevent manganese toxicity in next year's crop — a major problem in the production of tobacco on acid soils in Kentucky, says Ken Wells, Extension soils specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

He recommends having soils tested and applying as much lime as needed to adjust the soil pH to around 6.4. This will maintain the desired pH range of 5.5 to 6 during next year's growing season after fertilizer has been applied. High rates of fertilizer commonly used on tobacco reduce the pH a half point to a point below the initial reading.

The best time to apply lime in fields growing continuous tobacco is before seeding the cover crop, says Wells. Farmers using a crop rotation of 2 years grass-legume sod followed by 2 years of tobacco should apply lime right after harvesting the last tobacco crop in the rotation.

"Fall application gives the lime time to react with acids in the soil so it will do the most good," says Wells. Research shows that tobacco yields and quality are higher when lime is applied in the fall instead of waiting until spring.

Mixing lime thoroughly in the soil throughout the plow layer is important to provide good growing conditions for plant roots. "Don't just spread lime and plow it under," says Wells. "Disk it in well when working up a seedbed for the cover crop."

Soil samples for testing are handled through county Extension agents for agriculture, with offices located in every county in Kentucky. They have soil containers and instructions for taking samples in the field.

CROWNER HOSTS TV FARM SHOW

Jack Crowner, executive secretary of the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association, will be hosting a new Saturday morning farm show on WAVE-TV, channel 3 in Louisville.

The show will be aired from 7 to 7:30 a. m., EDT, beginning Sept. 10. Crowner says the programs will be video taped on farms throughout the WAVE viewing area.

Crowner is a former farm director of WAVE Radio and TV.

When you're thinking about buying... THINK ABOUT SELLING

It pays to invest in tractors that hold their value. Figures in the Spring 1977 Tractor Pricing Guide showed that a used 1976 Case 970 returned over 95% more of original new price in 1977 than did a 1975 Case 970. That should tell you something! The Case 970 features a 401 cubic inch naturally aspirated Case engine — a responsive 6-cylinder diesel with a massive 7-bearing crankshaft. The 970 is a 93 hp tractor with the really big tractor features. Value that endures. Quality, performance and high resale value — what more do you look for in a tractor? When you're thinking about buying, think about selling. You'll buy Case.

THE NAVY. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

The world might look a little dull from where you sit, but for some people, there's still a lot of adventure left.

Our people are launching jets off an aircraft carrier, cruising a submarine beneath the north pole or heading for a liberty port in the Caribbean.

There may be a lot of good reasons why you couldn't take part in this exciting adventure right away. Maybe you haven't finished high school yet. Maybe you have personal details to take care of, or people you don't want to leave just yet.

Whatever the reason, the Navy understands and we have a program designed just for you. It's called the delayed entry program. It lets you enlist now, but not report for up to one full year. The delayed entry program is convenient, but also smart because when you qualify for a navy school, the program guarantees that your place in that school will be waiting for you when you arrive.

The Navy has training in more than sixty career fields. Your local Navy recruiter can tell you which field you are qualified in and he can also give you more complete details about the delayed entry program.

Ancient Romans who saved the life of a citizen in battle while at the same time killing the opponent and holding the ground on which the fight took place, were awarded the "civic crown," a wreath of oak leaves and acorns. Recipients were excused from all laborious duties and services.

By Kenny Imes

Have you heard complaints these days about alleged lack of old-fashioned courtesy, respect and manners? Have you noticed a disturbing trend toward incivility on highways, streets, in offices, stores and public places where people congregate?

Certain facts are unmistakably clear. Every human being is a person. Politeness between people honors people as people. Good manners cost nothing but buys a lot of happiness and contentment. Good manners is an excellent tie to bind families and nations together.

In manners as in everything else, mankind should take a close look at the perfect example in the Man from Nazareth. Graciousness and gentlemanliness were constantly evident. He sloughed off the slights and insults. His standard of behavior was quite simple. Mainly, it was just being nice - regardless...

'Roots' Mini-Series Captures Nine Awards In Emmy Marathon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Roots" gathered up nine Emmys in an awards show that made up for a four-month delay by being the longest in the 29-year history of the Television Academy.

The 12-hour miniseries seen on ABC last January won Emmys for best limited series, directing and writing, with acting awards going to Louis Gossett Jr., Edward Asner and Olivia Cole. The three remaining Emmys for "Roots" were in craft categories.

The Sunday night Emmy Awards Show on NBC, delayed four months by a squabble that split the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences into an Eastern National Academy and a Hollywood Academy, ran a record 3½ hours. It was 40 minutes longer than the previous longest show last year.

"As long as we're running over, let's do it good," said Angie Dickinson, who was co-host with Robert Blake for the ceremonies at the stately Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

The Hollywood Academy handed out Emmys in 42 prime time categories, with 27 Emmys going to ABC, 21 to NBC, 17 to CBS and eight to PBS.

"Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years," won seven awards and tied with "Sybil" for outstanding dramatic special.

"Sybil" won four awards, including an award to star Sally Field, who was named best actress in a drama special for her portrayal of a woman afflicted by multiple personalities.

Dick Van Dyke's variety series, "Van Dyke and Co.," canceled by NBC last year after 11 performances, won as best variety series. "The Barry Manilow Special" was named outstanding variety special.

"I'm a little angry at NBC for pre-empting us so many times," said Van Dyke. "We even got letters asking us if we were doing a special."

Ed Flanders was named outstanding lead actor in a dramatic special for his feisty portrayal of the president in "Harry S. Truman: Plain Speaking."

Beatrice Arthur, going into her sixth year as "Maude," won her first Emmy as best lead actress in a comedy series. Carroll O'Connor, whose Archie Bunker is Maude's conservative counterpart, was named best actor in a comedy series for "All in the Family."

The retiring "Mary Tyler Moore Show" bowed out after seven years by capturing the Emmy as best comedy series. Its writers also won award for her farewell performance, and the Academy paid a special tribute to the show in excerpts dating back to its beginning.

James Garner won an Emmy as best dramatic series actor for his private eye-on-wry in "The Rockford Files," and Lindsay Wagner as best actress in a dramatic series for "The Bionic Woman."

Once again, Britain's "Upstairs, Downstairs" walked away with the award for best dramatic series.

Christopher Plummer, playing a corrupt banker in "The Money Changers," took the Emmy for best lead actor in a limited series. Patty Duke Astin won as best lead actress for "Captains and the Kings."

Burgess Meredith, who played lawyer Joseph Welsh, was named best supporting actor in a special for "Tail Gunner Joe" about Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Diana Hyland, who died of cancer this spring, was named outstanding supporting actress in a drama special for "The Boy in the Plastic Bubble." Her award was accepted in an emotional outpouring by John Travolta, her close friend who played her son in the movie.

Health...

implementation plan, a one-year plan which applies directly to health goals and objectives for the purchase area, does emphasize health education and prevention and these areas suggested by Burnet.

"The objection I have..." stated Harold Jenks, administrator of Lourdes Hospital in Paducah, "is that a plan has been evolved or developed without enough input from people who have really spent most of their lives in this (health care) area, and probably could help a great deal if they were included in the developmental stages of this plan."

Susan Harris, plan development officer for KHS-A-West, responded by reminding the audience that "there was at least one physician on every technical advisory group (involved in the development of the plan), and there are about three groups that, in addition to physicians, include hospital administrators' on the panel.

In addition, Judge Miller said that the "federal act mandated that more than fifty per cent of those involved in developing the Plan be consumers of health services."

Expressing his concern over all the government rules and regulations, and studies of the health care system, Jenks said that it could lead to the "close of the free enterprise system. I am fearful," he said "of what we are doing to ourselves."

"The plan has good structure, and probably a good effort has been made," commented Ken Phillips, director of program planning evaluation for the Purchase

Regional Mental-Health and Retardation Board, "but it did not deal with a lot of the specifics of psychiatric care."

He stated that it needed more specific goals and objectives with respect to psychiatric care, and that his staff and regional board would tend to accept the plan with the understanding that there will be more information provided about mental health care.

Judge Miller agreed with Phillips' comments, and assured him that "more specification for mental health goals and objectives would be contained in the final HSP."

Clarification of several points in the plan were noted, and Ms. Harris told the audience that the technical advisory group would further review the document, taking into consideration all comments and suggestions made at meetings and through correspondence before the final version of the HSP was approved.

"The purpose of the HSP is not to provide services or alleviate inadequacies in health care delivery systems, but to set goals and objectives for this delivery system," a spokesman pointed out. "The HSP remains only a written document until direct action is taken by consumers, providers and policy makers to actually accomplish stated priority objectives," he added.

According to Ms. Harris, the KHS-A-West will accept written comments on the HSP up to September 22, and all comments will be taken into consideration at the October 14, meeting of the HSA-West.

REED HONORED—Robert Reed, Marshall County, was recently honored for his services as the first chairman of the Purchase Subarea Health Council. Presenting the award is R. L. Cooper, Calloway County, secretary of the council.

WATERMELON BUST — Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity at Murray State University, held their fifth annual "Watermelon Bust" on the campus Friday afternoon. The festivities were officially opened when a member of the fraternity tossed a watermelon from the roof of Elizabeth Hall. Over 1,000 people consumed more than 300 watermelons and participated in the various contests. Pictured here are members of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, who won the spirit award. Sigma Sigma Sigma was the overall award winner and Vicki McCormick of Alpha Gamma Delta was named Miss Watermelon Bust.

Miss America Calls Self 'Ambitious'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The new Miss America describes herself as an "ambitious, sincere and unpretentious" girl who doesn't cry easily and won't be afraid to speak her mind.

"When I have something to say, I'll speak out," said Susan Yvonne Perkins, 23, of Columbus, Ohio.

A former full-time aide to the Ohio Legislature, Miss Perkins said at the traditional Sunday morning news conference that she is a registered Republican who could be classified as a conservative.

The 1976 Miami of Ohio graduate was asked why she hadn't broken down in tears, like so many of her predecessors have, when crowned Saturday night.

"I'm a pretty calm person and I guess I just don't cry that easily," said Miss Perkins, who is embarking on a whirlwind tour of several major cities.

Tears came to her eyes on cue, however, when she sang the blues song, "Good Morning, Heartache," during both a preliminary talent competition she won and for the nationally elevated pageant finale.

"I had to try real hard, but it worked both times," Miss Perkins said. "It helps the listener become emotionally involved."

After her year as Miss America, she said she may study law and enter local politics with an eye on an eventual seat in Congress if her dream of becoming a professional singer does not materialize.

As the 50th Miss America, she wins a $20,000 scholarship and can expect at least $50,000 in bookings during the next year.

Miss Perkins said she never smoked marijuana, but had reservations about making its use a crime.

She said she endorses the Equal Rights Amendment but also believes women "may be getting a better-than-equal chance" in employment.

In addition to her victory in the talent category, at least two judges were impressed with her way with words. Give life or abortions," said another.

She is tall, dark and strikingly pretty. As she strides purposefully down the street she is covered from neck to ankles in a black cape, and tops off the effect with silver-framed sunglasses. Passersby turn and look. An actress, perhaps. A top fashion model. Something.

Yes, something, all right. She is Clamma Dale, Soprano, and she is coming to Murray under the auspices of Murray Civic Music on April 11, 1978. She has already appeared in many Murray homes via television.

And now it is Murray's turn to find out about this 5-foot-10 inch soprano with the luscious voice and sensual looks, but it will only be possible with a membership to Murray Civic Music Association. Call 753-0711 for an affair to remember.
